ABSTRACT

A type of data among road data, route search data and route guidance data or a type of background data is specified to be updated. When updating either one of the road data, the route search data and the route guidance data, the entire data of the corresponding type stored in a hard disc 12 are updated. When updating the type of background data, data are updated in units of blocks corresponding to a specified range.